Two New Booze and Food Events Coming to New Orleans in March

Feb 15, 2017 | Industry News

While New Orleans has no shortage of amazing festivals, this March will see the debut of two new booze & food events, certain to tantalize the most discerning foodies and imbibers.

Top Taco NOLA

Since its inception in Denver in 2013, Top Taco has become the city's premier summer food festival. On Thursday, March 23, 2017, New Orleans locals and visitors will be able to indulge in a festive evening while giving back to the community at this culinary competition featuring gourmet tacos and creative tequila cocktails from forty of the Big Easy's best restaurants, along with live entertainment. Taking place at Riverwalk's Spanish Plaza, confirmed restaurants include Mizado, Jacques Imo's, bacobar, Rum House, Araña, Velvet Cactus, Tacos and Beer, Del Fuego, Patois, Canal St. Bistro and more. Each restaurant will be paired with a premier tequila brands like Sauza Hornitos, Patron, Casa Noble, and more – each offering unique and flavorful libations. VIP tickets include private nibbles and cocktails aboard the Paddlewheeler Creole Queen—the famous riverboat on the Mississippi River. Proceeds benefit One Heart NOLA.
